2016 ANNUAL REPORT

17 YEARS OF PROGRESS

17 YEARS OF GREAT PROGRESS IN A PLACE OF GREAT POVERTY

More than 60,000 people live in extreme poverty around the Guatemala City garbage dump, one of the largest open landfills in all of Central America.

1 out of every 3 residents has never been to school. Overcrowded Guatemalan public schools offer only 4 hours of education each day. The average parent has only a 4th grade education. An average family of 6 lives on $4 a day. Safe Passage helps these families.

Our mission: we empower the poorest, at-risk children of families in the Guatemala City garbage dump community by creating opportunities and fostering dignity through the power of education.

on our Facebook page.

THE POWER OF PROGRESS

How do we define progress? At Safe Passage, progress can be as simple as showing up for school and participating in class.

I see progress in the eyes of the participants in our program. I see it in the faces of graduates who I met years ago as small children. I see it in the expansion of our program into a full-day school. And I see it in our community, as entire families are transformed by the power of education.

You help us make great progress in a place of great poverty, and for that we are forever grateful.

In this report, we'll share with you our progress this year, both big and small. I hope you celebrate our stories. I hope you feel empowered, uplifted, and inspired. And I hope you see how you are changing lives in Guatemala City.

Thank you for bringing hope, education, and opportunity to our community. You make progress possible.

With gratitude,
Todd Amani, Executive Director

HANLEY'S LEGACY

We're guided by the vision of our founder, Hanley Denning (1970-2007), who started Safe Passage with 40 students in 1999. Read Hanley's story and view our timeline on our website:

Program highlights this year:

Full-day education

As part of the expansion of our accredited school, we added two 4th grade classes, bringing our total number of full-day students to 248.

Preschool

Our youngest learners are improving literacy with activities that develop their visual and auditory skills.

English Program

New interactive activities keep students engaged and focused while learning with peers and teachers.

Library

Our lending library expanded to include grade 3. We now have more than 120 books borrowed at any one time!

Próximo Paso

We expanded our graduate program to provide students in grade 7 with career and vocational training.

Parent Programs

The Guatemalan Ministry of Education accredited our adult education program and schooling services.

Creamos Social Entrepreneurship

Creamos mothers are celebrating new jewelry lines, local partnerships, and professional development initiatives.

Expeditionary Learning (EL) is the teaching methodology we're using for grades 3 and up in our full-day school. EL focuses on hands-on, experiential learning through expeditions in the local community and beyond. EL's values fit well within our own school values and include respect, confidence, kindness, and responsibility.

ANDERSON, YOUNG COLLABORATOR

Young Collaborators (Jovenes Colaboradores) is an internship program at Safe Passage for former students and graduates.

"Hanley is my hero. She inspired me to move forward, and she still inspires me every day. Because of her, now I can have a better future." ANDERSON, YOUNG COLLABORATOR

SAMUEL, GRADUATE

PROGRESS IS achieving great dreams

Samuel is the oldest of five siblings. He started attending Safe Passage in 2001, at the small church where Hanley started our program in 1999. Life at Safe Passage was vibrant, supportive, and safe.

At home, Samuel's world was turning upside down. Just one year after he started school, Samuel had to leave.

Samuel's parents had separated and his mother, who was the one encouraging his education, was no longer living with Samuel and his siblings. After two years, his mother reached out and pleaded with Samuel to return to school.

As Samuel continued his studies, life at home continued to be difficult. Samuel's mother had been sick since he was very young, and she was progressively getting worse. As the oldest child, Samuel was in charge of the family but did not have the resources to buy the medicine his mother so desperately needed.

"I don't know how my life would be if Safe Passage didn't exist, but I do know what my life is with Safe Passage in it."

With no one else to turn to, Samuel asked Safe Passage for help. "I'm really grateful for what Safe Passage did for my mother. They gave me everything I needed, not just medicine, but also support and help from my social worker."

As his mother's condition worsened, Samuel spent the majority of his time at the hospital. No one else in the family could.

"My social worker would call to see how my mother was doing and helped with whatever was needed. It didn't matter what time it was, she was always there for me."

Sadly, Samuel's mother passed away.

Inspired by his mother's encouragement, Samuel is working hard to achieve her greatest dream: for Samuel to graduate from university.

Today, Samuel is a Young Collaborator intern (part of Próximo Paso) and is also working in the formal economy as an accounting assistant.

"For me, Safe Passage is everything. Literally everything. They have given me tools to develop myself as a professional and have been there for me and my family. I know there are kids who have stories like mine or even worse. I want to give back some of what Safe Passage has given me."

Graduates at a Glance

As we expand into a full-day school, our goal is to increase the number of high school graduates and to better prepare graduates for employment.

PROGRESS IS connecting with community

Our team of social workers (Family and Community Services) works hard to connect with and support our community members by listening to their stories and learning their needs.

"Social work is a way to get closer to people and to serve them, and I believe we have to serve the people who are most in need." BRENDA, FAMILY AND COMMUNITY SERVICES DIRECTOR

At Safe Passage, we closely monitor student wellness because we know how much physical and mental health affects educational progress.

To start, students eat nourishing meals and receive medical care through our partner, Shared Beat, at our on-site infirmary. When advanced care is required, our social workers accompany students and families to local health centers for treatment.

Social workers also visit the public schools which our students in grades 5 to 9 attend. Following student academic, emotional, and social progress at home, school, and in the community helps us gain a better understanding of the best ways to support each student. Focused attention keeps our students happy, healthy, and on track to graduate.

"Seeing satisfaction on the faces of the people we serve, and watching them overcome obstacles is just one of our greatest achievements."

SOCIAL WORKERS

Our team of 10 social workers and 4 psychologists give individualized support for all 550 students. At Safe Passage, we meet the needs of the whole child.

Students face challenges that can make staying in school feel impossible:

- Unstable family situations
- Pressure to contribute to the family income
- Under-qualified teachers at external public schools
- Unplanned pregnancy or unexpected health issues

We work tirelessly to help our students and families receive the support they need.

NEW CENTER, NEW GROWTH

Thanks to the efforts of thousands of volunteers from Telus International, we built our new facilities in one day on a donated parcel of land! Then, volunteers from the Canadian Embassy planted greenery, PepsiCo volunteers added a fresh coat of paint, and staff painted a vibrant owl mural to prepare the space for our students.

This new space enables us to accommodate additional students, make better use of current buildings, and give our community a place to come together. Our progress is made possible by generous donations, partner organizations, and supporters like you!

WHERE DO YOU SEE PROGRESS?

We asked our staff and volunteers to share their thoughts on progress at Safe Passage, and we couldn't agree more with what they had to say.

Parents studying because they want to show their kids that no matter the age you can overcome obstacles.

LORENA, ADULT LITERACY COORDINATOR

The most important thing is education.
The only way we can change their futures is through education.

PABLO, PSYCHOLOGY

When I think of Safe Passage I see education and nurturing for those who need it the most.

ELIZABETH, VISITORS COORDINATOR

Students discovering abilities they didn't know they had.

YASMIN, GRADE 4 EXPEDITIONARY
LEARNING TEACHER

The first thing that comes to mind is kids and youngsters running around the buildings, laughing.

ISABEL, MAINTENANCE

I see hope, I see joy. I see a lot of kids becoming great citizens.

TREASURER'S REPORT

This year we saw increased momentum as Safe Passage continues its ongoing transition into a full-day accredited school. Of our 550 students, 248 are now full-day. We expect that number to double in 5 years. This will require steady leadership from the Board of Directors and staff and increased philanthropy from our generous donors. I hope you are proud, as I am, to be involved with an organization that takes seriously its ability to manage increased program costs during this important transition. Our auditors also agree—issuing once again a clean, “unqualified” independent audit. Your generous support is a vote for the future of our students and families, thank you very much.
