

Safe Passage Board of Directors Profiles – January 01, 2020

Susanna Badgley Place, President - Milton, MA

Susanna is a graduate of Princeton University (BA History) and Yale University School of Management (MBA in Finance and Marketing). Her career includes US Peace Corps Service in Africa, Project Analysts for the World Bank, owner/manager of import business, and consultant for non-profit service organizations. Her focus is management information systems and building institutional management capacity. She has served on the Boards of Planned Parenthood (MA), International Institute of New England (MA), Climate xChange (MA), and Safe Passage (Guatemala). She divides her time between Massachusetts, Maine and Guatemala, and is author of Guatemala Journey Among the Ixil Maya (2013) and an updated Spanish translation, Los Mayas Ixiles de Guatemala (2017).

Xavier Andrade - Guatemala

Xavier Andrade has been a real estate developer in Guatemala for 35 years. He specializes in home building for low and middle income Guatemalans. Xavier served as the President of the National Housing Association (ANACOV) from 2011-2013. Xavier is a founding member of the Las Americas rotary club and was club president 2012-2013. "As a Guatemalan, I had a rare opportunity to be able to get a good education and have the means to provide for my family. I believe it's my duty as a human being to provide others a chance in life- it doesn't take much."

Rebecca Evarts - Yarmouth, ME & Barcelona, Spain

After graduating from Harvard in 1974, I worked as an editor in New York publishing houses. I moved to Barcelona in 1985 with my husband and our first child, where we lived for the next seven years. I have worked as a freelance writer, and in 2002, received an MFA degree from Bennington College. We now live Yarmouth, Maine, and spend half the year in Barcelona.

My involvement with Safe Passage began in 2006 when I first went to Guatemala as a Spanish interpreter for a group of Maine surgeons and it occurred to me to write an article about Hanley Denning for a Maine publication. During that trip, I spent a day with her at the Project and came away both amazed by her and by what she was doing. After the tragedy, I became the sponsor of a two-year-old child, Linda Rosmery Ayapan Sánchez, whose mother was one of Hanley's earliest students. I've been back to Guatemala almost every year since which has allowed me to get to know our sponsored child, as well as her mother and little brother. I am also sponsoring Linda Rosmery's little brother, John Paul Ayapan Sánchez, who has just entered the third grade in the Hanley Denning School. We always take an excursion together that gives us time to talk. Since 2012, my husband and I have been working as interpreters for Shared Beat, the group of doctors who conduct twice-yearly physicals of Safe Passage students. This has given me an opportunity to see a broad spectrum of students as well as to observe the evolution of the Project.

Ellen Meyer Shorb - Lincoln, MA

Ellen has over 25 years experience in the nonprofit sector as a senior manager, consultant, trainer, and coach. She is the Principal of Blue Sage Partners, a strategy consulting firm that works with nonprofit and higher education senior teams and boards. She helped start a consulting company with Heifetz and Linsky, who developed the Adaptive Leadership model at Harvard; taught leadership at Northeastern University; and worked in several senior management positions in nonprofits ranging from start-ups to established, nationwide organizations. She holds a Master's in Public Policy from Harvard University, an MBA from Stanford University, and a BA from Dartmouth College. She was a Peace Corps volunteer in Honduras, traveled around the world for a year, is fluent in Spanish & conversational French.

Ernesto Jose Viteri Arriola - Guatemala

Ernesto Viteri is an attorney practicing in Guatemala. He is partner at VITERI & VITERI and was admitted to the bar in the State of New York. He is a graduate of Liceo Javier school in Guatemala and Millbrook School in New York State, and holds degrees in law from Universidad Rafael Landivar in Guatemala and New York University in New York. Mr. Arriola is a former faculty member at University Rafael Landivar (Guatemala) and member of the Departmental Electoral Board of Guatemala's Supreme Electoral Tribunal (TSE) to Guatemala General Elections.

Tania de Zedan - Guatemala

I have worked in education for more than 25 years, part in private business and part with Ministry of Education delivering reading and writing workshops for elementary teachers in the public sector. Currently she participates in several boards in the non for profit world that attend educational and health issues.

Carolyn Johnson, Vice-President - Yarmouth, Maine

Carolyn is a member of the Rotary Club of Yarmouth, Maine, and a Rotarian since 2001. She served as Governor for D7780 (Western Maine/ Coastal New Hampshire) in 2013-14.

Professionally, Carolyn is an educator with more than 30 years experience. She taught and was a principal at the elementary school level. She was selected as a Distinguished Educator by the Maine Department of Education to assist schools in developing Student Support Teams and anti-bullying programs. In 2006, she volunteered with the Guatemala Literacy Project, an effort that quickly evolved into her developing a program to improve the quality of literacy instruction for indigenous children in Guatemala. Carolyn is the founder of the Culture of Reading Program (CORP), providing training and support in effective literacy instruction for rural schools in Guatemala. Beginning in one school in 2008, CORP now serves more than 15,000 children in 80 primary schools.

Carolyn is a member of the Rotary Club of Yarmouth and served as District Governor of clubs in western ME and coastal NH. She is active as a facilitator with Rotary International, working with local clubs and districts. She is a frequent motivational speaker at regional and international events. Carolyn is Vice-chair of the Literacy Rotary Action Group, an advisor to the Rotary Foundation's Water, Sanitation & Hygiene In Schools programs, and serves as a consultant and project reviewer for major Rotary Foundation education & literacy grants. Carolyn was awarded the Service Above Self Award, Rotary's highest award recognizing Rotarians who demonstrate their commitment to others through volunteering their time and talents.

Carolyn has been involved with a number of community organizations, including Yarmouth Senior Housing, which provides safe, affordable housing options for older citizens. She is on the board of Learning Works, which offers education opportunities for at-risk youth, immigrants, and low-income families.

Carolyn and her husband, PDG Peter Johnson, live in Yarmouth, Maine. Their son, daughter-in-law and two grandchildren live in Michigan - much too far away from Maine!
